Lee Newell Gets Clarkson Degree in Engineering

G. Lee Newell of Penn Yan was among the more than 470 men who received degrees from Clarkson College of Technology at commencement exercises on Sunday, June 4 at Potsdam.

This year's graduating group is three times as large as last year's record breaking class of 163. For the second time, out-of-door ceremonies were held at Snell field.

Mr. Newell, the son of Mr and Mrs. George B. Newell of 109 Court street, Penn Yan, received the bachelor of mechanical engineering degree.

A 1946 graduate of Penn Yan Academy, he has been very active in student organizations at Clarkson. He is a member of the Clarkson Glee club, staff of radio station WNTC, sports staff of the student newspaper, 1950 ice carnival committee, Rifle club, student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Clarkson guard, military honor fraternity. He has participated in many intramural sports representing his fraternity, Lambda Iota.

Mr. Newell has been honored by election to membership in Pi Delta Epsilon, national collegiate journalism honorary, and listing in the 1950-51 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."
